POLITICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS

Seymour's majority is 403.

Up at Bessemer the Green men made a desperate effort to beat Seymour by getting out bogus tickets, that as described were well calculated to deceive the ordinary voter. There were three kinds of them.—Detroit Journal.

It seems to us that the only thing that could put New Jersey's electoral vote in the republican column would be the nomination of a free trade candidate by the democratic national convention.—New York Sun.

Just keep your eye on Judge Gresham, if you please. His presidential boom is not as clamorous as Sherman's but has started for Chicago and will reach that city in time for the republican convention.—New York Herald.

The Indy City Optic is preparing to illustrate its columns with the pictures of delinquent subscribers. The man who would cheat a country editor out of his hard-earned $1.50, must be worth looking at as a specimen of natural history. Has the AVALANCHE any such subscribers?

Hon. D. P. Markey was honored by the republicans of the State, with the position of temporary and permanent Chairman of the State Convention, which met in Detroit Wednesday, to organize a State Republican League. Mr. Markey filled the position very acceptably and is an excellent presiding officer.—West Branch Times.

The Chicago Journal feels called upon to say: "Gen. Sheridan says he doesn't want to run for president, and will not, and Senator Sherman says he doesn't care whether he (Sherman) shall be nominated or not. The field may be left clear before the meeting of the convention for Robert T. Lincoln. How would Lincoln and Hawley do for a team?"

There is a steady turning of republican sentiment from individual candidates for the presidency to who ever can bring victory under his leadership. They are for a republican president, without caring how he spells his name or where he was born. Any change is preferable to continuing the present "monkey's paw" in power.

The revised civil service rules do not require reasons to be given for the dismissal of government clerks. It shows the real strength of the feeling among the people in favor of civil service reform, that the democrats dare not repeal the law. They are trying to twist the rules so as to neutralize the law, as far as possible, but they dare not attack the latter openly.—Blade.

There is more grumbling than ever about the inefficiency of the postal service. The postoffice department at Washington must be fully cognizant of this, and now that there are no important elections close at hand to be looked after, it is no more than fair that some attention should be given by the authorities to the many complaints filed, or at least reported. Detroit Tribune:

The young republicans of Detroit and Michigan are enlisting considerable enthusiasm for Michigan's gallant son, Gen. R. A. Alger, for the presidency. Conceding his ability and fitness for the high place, yet we cannot but think that the movement is always without hope for reason of the many other candidates who are better known and have greater claims on the party—unless a break was made for a dark horse in which case Gen. Alger might stand a show. Port Huron Tribune:

The new postmaster-general has had time since he was installed to look after one political campaign and chop off the heads of several faithful and efficient railroad mail agents in Michigan who were guilty of the unpardonable offense of voting the republican ticket. One of these agents, Henry Allen, is not only guilty of this offense but of the far more serious one of having fought in the union army, where he was shot and crippled for life.—Such things count under this administration. Has anybody heard of a crippled rebel soldier being removed from office lately?—Detroit Tribune.

In order to make Delaware a democratic state, beyond all question, 300 republican citizens of Wilmington have been disfranchised. Democratic assessors and democratic policemen managed to exclude them from enrollment by sharp practices and even actual force. The democratic party seems to have practically adopted the policy of keeping in power by fraud rather than by the vote of the people. Whenever it gets itself entrenched in office, it tries to perpetuate its lease of power by scoundrelism. The same game was tried in Ohio in 1855, but it wouldn't work. The same may also be said of Indiana.—Blade.

EDITOR AVALANCHE:—It has been so long since we have seen anything in your paper from here that I thought I would tell you some of our doings.

We celebrated Washington's birthday by serving an old time supper in our town hall which had been tastefully decorated with the evergreen spruce so abundant here. The people generally participated and the number was increased by three sleigh loads from the "Settlement" east of us. We noticed Uncle Jerry Sherman and gentle Aunt Maria at the head of one of the tables, doing ample justice to the corn bread, pumpkin pie, etc., with which they were abundantly laden. There was enough and to spare of the good things served; and two of the cakes which seemed too good to eat, were sold at fair prices, one of them was ornamented with a branch of Hydrangeas which fairly rivaled with nature in their loveliness, and were all the more appreciated as being the work of one of our own young ladies. The other, a pyramid was a bargain to its purchaser at a dollar and a quarter.

The people were greeted by a few words of welcome from our minister who has the friendship of all; closing his remarks with a request that we sing "My Country 'tis of thee." This was followed by an address from Mr. Putnam, giving in a very condensed and interesting manner a history of "the times that tried men's souls." The entertainment was both pleasant and profitable, and netted our church treasury $27.50.

The logging railroad just in the outskirts of the village built by Eddy & Avery, and extended still further into the heart of the forest by Toohey Bros. is just completed, and a train loaded with logs emerging from the woods and creeping closer and closer until it finally intersects the main line about half a mile below, is a very pretty and novel sight. Rail roads seem to be coming thick and fast to us now, for we learn that the work of grading towards us was resumed on Mr. David Ward's road three weeks ago, and as several camps are built and both men and teams are on the ground. Work will go rapidly forward with the opening of spring.

F. L. Barker went to Detroit to attend the banquet of the Republican Club and as he has not yet returned, it is thought he is off on quite a lark. M. S. Dilley is still engaged in getting out and shipping large quantities of pulp wood.

Our hotel and merchants have all had a large business this winter.

We have a night operator now, so that our depot is open at night as well as day.

The weather has turned cold again, but good health prevails. M. M. B.

Fall View was unknown until created by the Michigan Central Railroad, which stops its trains at this point to enable its passengers to enjoy the grandest and most comprehensive view of the falls that is to be anywhere obtained. Before that time people came in carriages from the American side to "Inspirational Point," the view from which Howells said was "unequalled for sublimity," but Fall View, from its more elevated, the scene from it is much finer. No other roads runs to or near this point and through passengers by the Michigan Central. "The Niagara Falls Route," has this great advantage without detention or additional expense.

Senator Stockbridge, of Michigan, is somewhat of a wag. He was sitting in his committee room the other day when one of those fellows who are always demanding documents came in. The caller had secured almost every book, pamphlet and bill which the government unanimously prints and gives away. But he still longed for more.

"I am very anxious," said he, "to secure a copy of the Constitution of the United States. Could I enlist your help, senator?"

"Why, certainly; but it would be useless. The effort will be futile."

"Indeed; and why?"

"Well, you see, there were so many demands from people like yourself for copies of this work that the supply nearly ran out. There was only one copy left, and the president has just sent that to the Pope."—New York Tribune.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, '88.

Mr. Blaine's letter to Chairman Jones of the National Republican committee, announcing that his name would not go before the National nominating convention this year, has overshadowed everything of a political nature at the National Capitol this week; and although it has now been nearly a week since the first day it was made public, it is just as eagerly discussed as it was the first day it was printed, and opinions differ as widely upon what its effects are likely to be on the people and afterwards on the nominating convention. The opinion for convenience may be put in three classes:

First, those who were opposed to Blaine's nomination, but would vote for him if he received the party nomination. They believe, or at least they say so, that the letter removes Mr. Blaine entirely from the field, and that he could not consistently accept the nomination even if the convention should unanimously tender it to him.

Second, those who acknowledge the fitness of Mr. Blaine to be the nominee of the party, but who for personal reasons prefer some other man. They believe—because it is in accordance with their wishes—that the letter takes Mr. Blaine out of the race and leaves it open to the best man, which of course is their candidate.

Third, those who believe that Mr. Blaine is entitled to the highest honor that his party can give him, on account of his life long work in its interest, to say nothing of giving him a chance to obtain what was lost in 1884 by accident. They say that Mr. Blaine cannot prevent the republicans of the country from nominating and electing him to the presidency, that the matter is out of his hands entirely; and that the letter will have no effect whatever except to make them more determined than ever to nominate him.

This classification does not include the opinions of the democrats. They all hope that Mr. Blaine will not be the candidate. They fear him on account of his powerful influence over the Irish-Americans, more than any other man in the republican party. A democratic politician of national reputation was overheard to say to a senator of the same party; "Blaine is the only man we have got to look out for. If the republicans had put up any other man in their party in 1884, Cleveland would have carried New York by fifty thousand majority instead of the beggarly eleven hundred that we pulled through with. Our polity from now on should be to prevent the nomination of Blaine."

If the old maxim, "find out what your opponents don't want you to do and then do it" is right, then the republican party should go right ahead and nominate Blaine, his letter notwithstanding. But politics are not run by maxims old or new, and who is to be the nominee is becoming a burning question.

Whichever way the Blaine letter, be taken, it has resulted in bringing Gen. Phil Sheridan well up in the front rank of eligible candidates for the republican nomination. He would make a strong candidate, certain to be elected, and what a president he would make. The administration circus is to be run again for a short exhibition of one week. The show is to go South, as far down as Florida, on a special train which will leave here on Tuesday, returning Saturday night. Whether the special train will include the celebrated car with plate glass sides in which the menagerie was exhibited during the Western tour last year, has not been learned at this writing. This hurried trip has been arranged to help the good cause of electing Cleveland delegates to the democratic nominating convention, some anti-Cleveland mutterings have recently been heard in that section. The show will consist of the following stars: Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Whitney, and Col. and Mrs. Lamont. The show will be accompanied by representatives of the Associated and United Press, whose duties will be to supply any enthusiasm that may be lacking in the reception of the circus by the natives.

Judging from the enthusiastic gathering of republicans at their Detroit banquet, the g. o. p. has not as yet given up Michigan as lost. The recent Eleventh district contest has however opened their eyes to the fact that hard work will be required to keep her in her ranks, and as a result the coming campaign will be an unusually hard one.—Port Huron Tribune.

How Mon Dio.

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we're pre better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency towards death. Many however have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases a little aid to the weakened lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Under the first symptoms of a Cough, Cold or any trouble of the Throat or Lungs, give that old and well-known remedy—Bosch's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove what thousands say of it to be, the "benefactor of any home."

Notable Nuptials.

We clip the following article relative to the marriage of a niece of Mrs. M. E. Hanson, from the Indianapolis Journal:

The marriage of Miss Carrie Wilson Kregel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Kregel, to Dr. George W. Combs, was celebrated yesterday at high noon at the family residence on North Illinois street. The ceremony took place in the spacious hall into which the several parlors open. The handsome high mantle was decorated with sunflowers and white flowers, hyacinths, narcissus and frigia, and suspended from the ceiling was a large horseshoe made of flowers, under which the bridal party stood.

The bride and groom were preceded by Mr. J. L. Hanson and Miss Kitty Kregel, attendants, and Revs. J. A. Bondaler and J. E. Gantz, the former of whom pronounced the beautiful and impressive ceremony and the latter gave the benediction while an orchestra rendered the "Wedding March" and "Sweet Spirit Hear My Prayer."

The bride wore a costume of white corded silk in train, with petticoat of white plissé and silk stripe. The corsage was V-shape, and the garniture of duchesse lace was caught with pearl pin. The bouquet was of white roses, and over her entire figure was thrown a veil of tulle. After the service friends gathered about to tender their congratulations and good wishes, and numerous congratulatory telegrams were received during the entire day. Breakfast was served and the dining room and tables were decorated with love's own color—pink. Across the center of the table was "C. W. C." in silk and pink hyacinths. The house was decorated with flowers, many of them being bouquets and baskets, sent as reminders of friends. A feature of the occasion was that the house was heated with natural gas.

The gifts were exquisitely beautiful, and included rare china, crystal, silver and gold, fancy work and embroidery, and many substantial presents.

That from the bride's father was a deer in a house and lot on North Tennessee street, a silver tea set from her mother, a china dinner set of 163 pieces, was from Mr. W. G. Wilson, of New Orleans, for whose wife the bride was named, and the groom's gift was a gold watch and chain.

Mr. and Mrs. Combs left at 4 o'clock for a two weeks' trip, and upon their return they will receive their friends at Mr. Kregel's.

If the republicans had put up any other man in their party in 1884, Cleveland would have carried New York by fifty thousand majority instead of the beggarly eleven hundred that we pulled through with. Our polity from now on should be to prevent the nomination of Blaine.

If the old maxim, "find out what your opponents don't want you to do and then do it" is right, then the republican party should go right ahead and nominate Blaine, his letter notwithstanding. But politics are not run by maxims old or new, and who is to be the nominee is becoming a burning question.

Whichever way the Blaine letter, be taken, it has resulted in bringing Gen. Phil Sheridan well up in the front rank of eligible candidates for the republican nomination. He would make a strong candidate, certain to be elected, and what a president he would make.

The Free Press didn't like Gen. Ben. Harrison's banquet speech. The Free Press is hard to please. It didn't like any of the speeches made in 1861 in favor of defending the union; it threatened a fire in the rear when the loyal sons of the north applauded those speeches and marched to the front to save the old flag; it frantically howls now when honest men protest against the political outrages in the south by which the republicans of that section are deprived of their rightful representation in the national congress. It is the same old smooth-bore firing in the rear—always in the rear.

Meeting of the Indiana Grand Army. The Grand Army of the Republic of Indiana met in annual encampment at Indianapolis last week, with the largest attendance in its history. The Commander's report showed that there were now on the muster rolls of the State the names of 24,464 comrades. The posts numbered 476. The gains during the year were: By muster, 4,346; by transfer, 451; and by reinstatement, 3,510, making a total gain of 8,307. The losses were: By death, 243; honorably discharged, 107; by transfer, 730; by suspension, 4,267; dishonorable discharge, 46; delinquent reports, 11. The net gain in membership during the year was 2,873.

Kansas Encampment.

The Kansas G. A. R. encampment at Wiggins was largely attended. There was a gain of sixty-two posts during the year, and the total in the State is 459. There was an increase of 1,007 in the membership, which shows an aggregate of 20,139 comrades. The instant Quartermaster's report shows a balance on hand of $1,201, with $391 still due from posts.

ASSOCIATION OF SEVEN STATES.

The G. A. R. Encampment Association of Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska was organized at a meeting of the Grand Army men in Kansas City. The organization will be perfected at Trenton, Mo., March 13, the day before the encampment of the Department of Missouri.

THAT TREATY.

Fishermen Said to Be Greatly Dissatisfied with Its Provisions.

ACCORDING to a Boston dispatch to the Daily News, the new fisheries treaty is not liked in New England. The New England fishermen, who are working in Gloucester almost all the time, have been sacrificed to the interest of Canada. The President and Secretary Bayard received much opposition to the treaty from men who declare that the treaty is a disgrace to all American statesmen. It is in the minds of all that the men who are dissatisfied are especially because they are practically excluded from Fortune Bay. Moreover they object to paying $1.50 a ton for the fish they catch, while the men in the treaty of 1876 has already given them.

A Washington telegram says "the outcome of the treaty promises to be an unlooked-for gain to the cause of commercial union. The treaty is sure to be rejected. The scrutiny of Mr. Bayard's diplomacy which has followed the publicity given the treaty makes this certain."

Trade Rather Sluggish.

BUSINESS failures in the United States and Canada for the week numbered 270 against 273 the previous week. R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for this week reports that both legitimate trade and speculation continue duller than usual at this season. Efforts to settle railroad wars have not succeeded, but new cuts cause much disturbance. The sugar trust meets unexpected opposition, threatening its existence, and operations of other syndicates or corporations make it impossible to forecast the future in many trades.

The Drama.

Mrs. Langtry, who has been playing a four weeks' engagement at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, was seized with illness, and her family physician was hastily summoned West. She played only two nights during the week, the fine theater being closed the other four evenings, much to the disappointment of many play-goers. Mrs. Langtry, it is stated, has so far recovered to be able to fulfill her engagement, and will be seen this week in her new play, "As in a Looking-Glass."

State Convention Dates.

The Republican State Committee of Oregon has called the State Convention to meet at Portland April 11. The North Carolina Democratic State Convention will meet at Raleigh on May 30. The Democratic State Committee passed resolutions in favor of abolishing the whole internal-revenue system.

Death of W. W. Corcoran.

WILLIAM WILSON CORCORAN, the millionaire philanthropist, died at Washington, on the 25th of February, aged 59 years. He left an estate valued at many millions of dollars. He has given over $3,000,000 to his fellow-men in the last fifteen years.

Corporation.

A LONG discussion took place in the Senate on Feb. 24, over the point that the bill to incorporate the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua does not contain the restrictions and safeguards inserted in bills of a similar character. Mr. Sherman hoped that the bill, which simply incorporated certain well-known and established interests of modern times, should be passed without unnecessary delay. He would vote from the Treasury of the Senate, but the bill was not so evidently against the general popular voice that the idea had to be abandoned. The House of Representatives, however, in the contested election case of McAlpin vs. Davidson of Alabama, favorable to the claims of Davidson, the returning member of the House of Dakota as separate State, and Mr. Baker of New York presented minority reports on the same measure. The Senate bill increasing the same docket was favorably reported to the House.

THE EASTERN STATES.

JOSEPH HOFMANN, the boy pianist, will not play again this season. His father and mother have determined to stop the series of concerts which he has been giving under the management of Abbey, Schoefel & Gray, in New York, who express much dissatisfaction at their action.

The New York Senate Committee began operations on the Sugar Trust, in the city of New York, on Tuesday. It was a lively session and much important testimony was elicited, showing how a deal had been made to the detriment of the public. Theodore E. and E. O. Havemeyer were present, and were represented by John Doe Passor and John E. Parsons. The Cotton Trust had a special stenographer present. Mr. Henry O. Havemeyer was examined at great length. He declined to produce the "trust" agreement, on the ground that it might criminate him.

GRACE BENNETT & CO., iron manufacturers of Pittsburgh, have failed. The failure was a great surprise, as nothing of the kind was looked for. In 1883 the firm failed for $1,200,000 and were granted an extension. Since then they have paid about two-thirds of their indebtedness and were supposed to be doing well. The cause of their failure was the investment of all their profits in the extension of their plant. No statement has yet been made, but it is understood that the secured liabilities are about $600,000, and the unsecured liabilities from $600,000 to $700,000.

GEOFFREY H. CONNELL, the eminent engine-manufacturer, and one of the most prominent and wealthy men of Rhode Island, died very unexpectedly at his residence in Providence, of paralysis of the heart. In 1875 Mr. Corliss submitted plans for an engine of 1,400 horsepower, to move all the machinery in the Philadelphia exhibition. Engineers of high repute predicted that it would be noisy and troublesome, but it was completely successful, owing to the care of Mr. Corliss, who spent $10,000 upon it above the appropriation for building it.

THE WESTERN STATES.

WILLIAM B. TASCOTT, the stylish, blue-eyed young burglar who murdered Amos J. Snell, the Washington boulevard millionaire, and sought safety, flight, but had not yet been arrested, says a Chicago telegram of Monday. He is still secure in his place of hiding, but an army of police is on the watch to bring him wherever he may go. The police say that he cannot escape. It is alleged that he was captured. The police say that he was not captured. The gains during the year were: By muster, 4,346; by transfer, 451; and by reinstatement, 3,510, making a total gain of 8,307. The losses were: By death, 243; honorably discharged, 107; by transfer, 730; by suspension, 4,267; dishonorable discharge, 46; delinquent reports, 11. ### THE POLITICAL FIELD.

THE National Democratic Committee met at Washington, Feb. 23, for the purpose of selecting the date and place for holding the next Democratic Convention to nominate candidates for President and Vice President. There was a full attendance of delegates, the only vacancy being that caused by the death of Hubert O. Thompson, of New York. The vacancy was promptly filled by the election of William Stearns. Senator Gorman offered a resolution fixing the date at July 3 next. This was vigorously opposed by Congressmen Scott, of Pennsylvania, who advocated holding the convention on May 22. Another proposal was made to fix June 5 as the date for holding the convention, but this was objected to by Senator Gorman. A ballot was then taken, and the committee, by a vote of 23 to 19, agreed that the convention should be held on the 31 of July. Next came the fight over the location. The claims of Chicago, San Francisco and St. Louis were set forth in eloquent speeches. Ten ballots were taken, with the following result:

AN IMPORTANT FACT.

An Easy Cure for Weak, Tired, and Nervous Feelings.

Persons complain that they are weak, tired and exhausted; they have no appetite or strength, no life or ambition to work; they become listless, cross, blue and discouraged; various parts of the body, and there is often indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, dull head and general despaired feeling. Sleepless, red eyes, and watery night follow.

One of these symptoms results in acute nervous prostration or paralysis with numbness, troubling, cold feet and legs, prickling sensation and weakness and weariness.

Persons are prostrated, paralyzed or insane by neglecting the first symptoms, not knowing that the nervous irritability, gloom of the mind, loss of memory, nervous weakness and indisposition, an exhaustion of nerve power, will, with a little proper restorative remedy is used, result in utter mental collapse and absolute prostration of nerve and physical power.

Save yourselves from these terrible results by the use of that wonderful nerve invigorator and health restorer, Dr. Greene's Nervous Nerve Tonic.

It is a purely vegetable remedy, and may be used with entire safety, and with a certainty of cure.

It is a sure and certain remedy for all the diseases of the nervous system.
